UNBROKEN ENCOUNTER WITH UPRISING.— A dispatch dated at Kureka, June 17th, says: Last Thursday evening a desperate encounter occurred on the summit of Trinity mountain between two highwaymen and the Sheriff of Trinity county, aided by a stage driver and Brewster. It seems that the stage driver had about $40 in the safe of the stage driver held at Trinity Center, and volunteered to accompany the Sheriff in pursuit. They proceeded to the top of the mountain to await the robbers, who lacked the stage of the same day had it not been for a man on the outside was carrying a shotgun. Late in the evening the two robbers were discovered and ordered to stop. When one of them, sang out, "Get out of of a ————" and commenced shooting, which firing was returned in a lively manner.
As many as a dozen shots were fired, each party dodging behind trees and rocks. One of the robbers was discovered lying on the ground dead, having been shot through the head just behind the ear, and also through the hip. The other robber was wounded and fell off the grade into a gulch, managed to escape. The Sheriff came out of the contest unscathed, but the stage driver had his forehead scratched by the close grazing off a bullet. The dead robber had a Wells, Fargo & Co's, treasure box key in his pocket, supposed to have been taken from the safe broken open in Kimpelt Loring's store at Trinity Center.

Capture of a Gentle Thief and Recovery of Much Plunder.

Within the past two months numerous cases of petty and grand larceny have been reported at the police headquarters, but traces of the perpetrator of such crimes were usually so vague that the police had little or nothing to work upon. On Wednesday last the thief who has managed his exploits so adroitly visited the International Hotel, and there temporarily ended his career in this branch of enterprise. His mode of procedure was bold, and had he not been detected, would have proved very profitable. Knocking at the door of a lady boarder in the hotel, he inquired if she knew the whereabouts of the person who formerly occupied her room. He received a negative reply, and taking a moment to eaves-drop from his pocket, she supposed to an adjoining room, and after a short sentence he consigned her key, containing $50. The exploit was at once reported to the police, together with a clear description of the fellow, an old-fashioned Irishman, with a white beard, and a high-collared coat, which he very modestly admitted. Detective J. R. Rogers was specially assigned the duty of looking after this scamp, and provided for the hearing of several days, his eagle eyes picked out the man whom he noticed boarding a Kearny street car, and who seemed to him the description of the man who had been reported to him. He followed him closely on his evening round, until he finally repaired to his quarters at the Russ House, where he was arrested and further identified for the time by the police. The man was taken to the police station, and recognized at the City Prison by several of the victims, and a multitude will rise up against him when his crimes come up for investigation in court.

The man was taken to the police station, and recognized at the Russ House, where he had been quartered for about two months. On visiting his room the officers discovered a large and promising stock of plunder, consisting of a large number of valuable items. The plunder was taken to the police station and deposited with the Property Clerk, to await the appearance of owners. A good many people who have suffered by the recent will be gratified by the return of their property, and many others will be surprised to find a fellow of capiverting address, and well calculated to deceive. He readily admits that he follows thieving as a profession.

The following is a better description than that given in our circular of the 18th inst., of Joseph Claude, alias Jos. Clarke, supposed to have been engaged in the robbery of W. F. & Co's Express near Eureka, Nev., on the 14th inst. He is about five feet six inches high, dark complexion, dark eyes, black hair, whiskers and moustache; square shoulders, short neck, and weighs about 140 lbs.; legs bend out at knee in walking, and feet set straight; talks like a Canadian Frenchman. His accomplice is supposed to be one Morris Wehrn, or Wheen, height five feet six or seven inches; weight about 140 lbs.; age 28 years; dark-colored moustache and imperial of light growth; Roman nose; wore a blue or black sack coat, single-breasted vest and light-colored ribbed pants. We enclose a photograph of him, said to be a good likeness. If found, have both or either arrested, and notify agent at Eureka by telegraph.
